Experience

Joaquín Silveira is an attorney with a postgraduate degree in Corporate Law, leads the Residency & Relocation Department at Guyer & Regules.

As part of his professional practice, Joaquín specializes in providing comprehensive immigration advice to both international companies with interests in Uruguay and local businesses. He also assists individual investors, executives, and their families seeking to establish themselves in the country.

His work covers all stages of the relocation process—from the initial analysis of the client's immigration status and strategic planning for legal entry and stay in Uruguay, to obtaining legal residency and, eventually, Uruguayan citizenship.

In addition, Joaquín actively advises on matters related to tax residency, working closely with clients aiming to optimize their international tax position or relocate their economic center of life to Uruguay, in coordination with experts in tax and estate planning.

His approach combines in-depth regulatory knowledge with a practical and personalized perspective, allowing him to guide his clients through the entire relocation process in an efficient, secure, and tailored manner.
