Experience

Julieta Irastorza, is a lawyer who works in the Litigation Department, with a special focus on asset restructuring, family law, and civil law.

Her practice includes advising individuals and legal entities on reorganization and/or asset restructuring with an inheritance and family perspective. She is also involved in negotiations, drafting of agreements, wills, administrative and testamentary trusts, as well as litigation related to both property and personal family law, including matters involving minors, individuals with disabilities, and children.

She has extensive experience in legal representation and counseling in civil matters, consumer law, and annulment proceedings, among other legal areas. She has advised clients in negotiations and disputes involving commercial contracts, contractual and non-contractual liability, as well as distribution agreements and disputes arising from such relationships. Additionally, she is part of the advisory team on consumer relations and commercial promotions.

Julieta holds a postgraduate degree in Family Law from the Universidad de Montevideo and another in Private Asset Law from Universidad Austral in Buenos Aires.

She currently teaches at the Universidad de la República, where she holds a Grade I teaching position in the courses Private Law I and IV.

Committed to pro bono work, Julieta provides legal advice to women in vulnerable situations and has led teams that teach family law courses in prison facilities. She also participated in updating Uruguayan regulations regarding people with disabilities and is involved in gender working groups that promote safe spaces for discussing these issues.
