"This first-class law firm can match any US or European firm," stated one commentator. Its dispute resolution team is one of the biggest in the country, which enables it to work on highly complicated matters such as defending Moody's in a case involving more than 40 lawsuits, for a total amount of USD80 million. The team has excellent litigation and arbitration skills and a strong background in the banking sector, advising major entities such as HSBC, Banco Itaú, Citibank and BBVA. According to clients, "the whole team is dedicated to obtaining the best results possible for our interests." Highly regarded practitioner Carlos Brandes has a wealth of experience in civil litigation, and is particularly strong in international commercial arbitration. "He is extremely committed and gets involved in the case from A to Z," reported one interviewee, adding: "He is always efficient, and gives us his utmost attention." Associate María Eloisa Cerdeña works with Brandes, and is seen as a valuable resource on complicated litigation cases. "She is proficient in her dealings and provides succinct summaries and translations of relevant matters," sources say.
